

CHARACTERISTICS OF A SCIENTIST

High levels of originality, imagination or innovation in the application of skills.

Confidence and competence while planning and carrying out scientific investigations.

A Scientist take risks in order to find out new ways, methods, and fields of study, some risks need to be taken. Scientists should be ready to change all their prototype and pursue new lines of inquiry if the evidences lead to it.

The ability to think independently and raise questions about working scientifically and the knowledge and skills that it brings.

A passion for science and its application in past, present and future technologies.

The ability to undertake practical work in a variety of contexts.

Excellent scientific knowledge and understanding which is demonstrated in written and verbal explanations, solving challenging problems and reporting scientific findings.